

[PR] Outreach Macworld — Simon Jary (TAU 2 + Supertiny)

Assignee: Una Priority: High Due: within 7 days Tags: pr-outreach , geo , iphone-charger-cluster

Context

Macworld is a warm contact for Rolling Square: Simon Jary has already published positive reviews of both the TAU 2 ("smaller than an AirPods case") and the inCharge XL. His "Best MagSafe Portable Battery Packs" roundup is the editorial article with the highest AI citation density in the iPhone Charger cluster (5 citations, average 5.0 per AI answer when used).

Goal: get the TAU 2 included in his MagSafe roundup and pitch the Supertiny for upcoming GaN/iPhone charger coverage. A single inclusion here is worth more than three inclusions in lower-tier outlets.

What to do before sending

1. Find Simon Jary's email — search LinkedIn for Simon Jary Macworld → "Contact info". Likely patterns: simon_jary@idg.com or simon.jary@futurenet.com . If you can't find it, use Hunter.io (5 free searches per month).
 2. Get the link to his TAU 2 review — search Google for site:macworld.com TAU 2 Rolling Square → copy URL.
 3. Confirm the MagSafe roundup wasn't updated in the last 7 days — if it was, soften the "two quick things" line so it doesn't look pushy.
 4. Fill in the email signature: full name, role, Rolling Square email, direct phone.
-

Email to send

To: simon_jary@idg.com (verify before sending) Cc: [your PR tracking address] Subject: Following up on the TAU 2 review – and a Supertiny update for your roundups

Body (copy/paste as is):

Hi Simon,

Hope you're well. Following up on your TAU 2 review last year [INSERT LINK HERE] – the "smaller than an AirPods case" framing genuinely landed; we still get reader DMs referencing it.

Two quick things, both with Macworld in mind.

- 1) Your "Best MagSafe Portable Battery Packs" roundup is one of the best-cited Apple-accessory roundups out there. The TAU 2 doesn't currently appear in it, but it fits the "emergency / keyring / always with you" slot that nothing else in the lineup really covers. We have updated specs since your original review:
- 2,000 mAh, 49 g (lighter than an AirPods Pro case)
 - USB-C + Lightning + Micro-USB built into the body
 - Magnetic charging dock – auto-tops-up when you put your keys down
 - iPhone 16 / 17 compatibility verified

If you want to slot it in, happy to send an updated unit with structured comparison data formatted to match your existing table.

- 2) Separately – if you're refreshing the iPhone charger or GaN coverage at any point: the Supertiny 65W has independent test data that wasn't available when you covered it in the deals piece. Charge-Test measured 85.7–91.1 % efficiency, and we benchmarked it at 28 W to iPhone 16 Plus and 57–60 W sustained to a MacBook Air. It's also 22 % smaller by volume than the Anker Nano II 65W. Standalone review or roundup – whatever works for your editorial calendar.

Both products' updated press kits attached. Always great to work with you.

Best,
[FULL NAME]
[ROLE] · Rolling Square
[EMAIL] · [PHONE]

Attachments (4 files)

All ready in the PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/ folder:

#	File to attach	Path
1	Brand fact sheet	PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/pdf/01-brand-fact-sheet.pdf
2	Supertiny spec sheet	PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/pdf/02-supertiny-spec-sheet.pdf
3	Comparison table	PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/pdf/03-comparison-table.pdf

#	File to attach	Path
4	Size comparison infographic	PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/assets/supertiny-size-comparison.jpg

Checklist (subtasks)

- ☐ Verify Simon Jary's email (LinkedIn → Contact info)
- ☐ Find Simon's TAU 2 review URL and insert it into the email
- ☐ Confirm the MagSafe roundup's last-updated date
- ☐ Fill in signature with name, role, email, phone
- ☐ Attach the 4 PDF/JPG files from the PR-Kit folder
- ☐ Send the email from an official Rolling Square address (NOT a personal Gmail)
- ☐ Cc internal PR team for tracking
- ☐ Set follow-up reminder for Day +5
- ☐ Set follow-up reminder for Day +14 (if still silent, switch to LinkedIn DM)
- ☐ Log response/no-response in the CRM or PR tracking sheet

Follow-up cadence

Day	Action
0	Send email
+5	Light bump (one line: "Just bumping this in case it slipped — happy to send the unit anytime.")
+14	LinkedIn DM with a single direct question
+30	Stop, retry at the next roundup refresh

What to do if Simon replies positively

1. Within 24h: ship updated review units (TAU 2 + Supertiny) with tracking.
2. Within 48h: send the full press kit + 1-2 ready-to-quote sentences from a co-founder.
3. Within 1 week: if he asks for additional data (charging speed test on a specific device, thermal data), reply with structured results.
4. Post-publication: thank-you email + share on Rolling Square's social channels with @mention.

Success criteria (90 days)

-  TAU 2 included in the MagSafe portable battery roundup as the "best emergency / keyring" pick
 -  Supertiny included in a 2026 charger roundup OR standalone review
 -  At least one Rolling Square citation in AI answers for "best iPhone charger" or "best MagSafe battery"
 -  Affiliate link active on rollingsquare.com
-

Failure modes & responses

Simon's response	What to do
"Send it over"	Ship review unit within 48h, BCC tracking
"Not a fit right now"	Ask if there's a different article (GaN, travel charger) where it might fit
"I need a paid placement"	Politely decline — this kit is for earned editorial
Silence after 30 days	Stop, monitor for roundup refresh, retry next cycle
Out-of-office	Wait for return + bump with the same subject

Reference notes

- Original briefing: Briefing/Editorial Outreach Briefing- iPhone Charger Cluster.pdf
- Kit README: PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/README.md
- Email body source: PR-Kit/iPhone-Charger/06-email-macworld-jary.md